

Financial companies elect how they share your personal information. Federal law allows consumers the right to limit some, but not all, shared information. Federal law also requires financial companies to inform you of how your personal information is collected, shared, and protected. Please read this notice carefully to understand what Mercer Global Advisors (“Mercer Advisors”) does with your personal information.

WHAT: The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the service(s) we provide you. This information can include:

- Social Security Number
- Investment assets
- Account transactions
- Income
- Retirement assets
- Investment experience

In the event that you are no longer a Mercer Advisors client, we will continue to share your information as outlined in this notice.

HOW: Financial companies must share personal client information to operate their day-to-day business. Listed below are the ways in which financial companies can share their clients’ personal information; whether Mercer Advisors has elected to share; and if you are able to limit such sharing.

QUESTIONS: Please send all questions, in writing, to:
Mercer Global Advisors, Attention: Compliance Department, 1200 17th Street, Suite 500, Denver, Colorado 80202

WHAT WE DO

How does Mercer Advisors protect my personal information? To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.
Mercer Advisors maintains physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to protect your non-public personal information.

When does Mercer Advisors collect my personal information? We collect your personal information when you:

- Open an account
- Make a deposit or withdrawal
- Enter into an Investment Advisory Agreement
- Provide account information

 Additionally, we may receive information about you from information services and consumer reporting agencies.

What types of information sharing can I limit? Federal law allows you the right to limit only the following:

- Sharing for affiliates’ everyday business purposes – information about your creditworthiness
- Affiliates using your information to market to you
- Non-affiliates using your information to market to you

 State laws and individual companies may provide you with additional rights to limit sharing. See back for more information regarding your rights under state law.
